

Number of young researchers in a field related to Pasture is increasing every year. With the view to assist those researchers to network, exchange ideas and share their findings, to improve interrelation of their research work and improve research skills of young researchers "Young Pasture Researchers Club" has been set up next to the Pasture Management Association in January 2008.

This club unites over 50 young researchers from research institutions, universities and colleges, international programmes and projects. Ms. B. Bolormaa- senior researcher at the Pasture Management Association heads this club with committee members: L.

Ariuntesetseg

- Mongolian University Lecturer,

Ts

Ariunbold

- Livestock Research Institute, B.

Odonchimeg

– Lecturer at the Agriculture Institute of Agriculture University, J.

Gantuya

– officer at the Livestock Research Institute acts as an assistant.

Club membership and opportunity to cooperate is open to everyone and online information exchange is available throughout a year. As reflected in the club regulations club members gathered at least 1-2 times annually to hold research conference, organised trainings and seminars with senior researchers and professors, in order to not only exchange information but also to consult on research methods, challenges faced during research and share findings and success stories. It is now a tradition to hold "Pasture Research- New Generation" research conference annually.
